UNITED STATES CUTTING TOOL INSTITUTE

LEADING THE FUTURE OF THE CUTTING TOOL INDUSTRY

About USCTI: The United States Cutting Tool Institute (USCTI) was formed in 1988 and resulted from a merger of the two national associations representing the cutting tool manufacturing industry: the Metal Cutting Tool Institute and the Cutting Tool Manufacturers Association. The resulting organization currently represents an estimated 80% of the domestic cutting tool market.

USCTI is the premier trade association for all manufacturers of any type of cutting tools designed and sold to the metalworking, woodworking, and other industrial and consumer markets. Membership is open to any North American manufacturer and/or re-manufacturer of cutting tools and their substrates, as well as post-fabrication tool surface treatment providers. Members belong to some 10 product divisions. A wide range of activities includes a comprehensive statistics program, human resources surveys and forums, development of product specifications and standards, and semiannual Institute meetings meant to facilitate industry networking through the exchange of ideas and to identify and obtain information about important and emerging industry and market trends.

USCTI membership provides invaluable resources for cutting tool manufacturers and trading partners, including:

- A wealth of industry information
- Networking opportunities and connectivity
- Market and industry trends
- Vital human resources and labor relations information
- Valuable technical resources
- Collection and dissemination of data on cutting tool production and sales
- Promotion of advances in engineering and manufacturing techniques
- Standardization of cutting tool dimensions and tolerances to assist end-users and manufacturers
- Representation of the cutting tool industry in matters of business and national concern

Today, the USCTI works globally to represent, promote, and expand the U.S. cutting tool industry and to promote the benefits of buying American-made cutting tools manufactured by its members to strengthen members' businesses and the industry as a whole.
